RE: Gazette Notice DGRB-010-07

Who has the authority to determine the validity of arguments against technical feasibility?

What is preventing an Operator from stalling another with a list of blanket technical objections for each site sharing request? Where is the burden of proof for technical objections?

Is there a time limit for arbitration?

What is the consequence for an incumbent operator who does not act in good faith?

The goal of the legislation is to prevent the erection of new towers where existing structures can be used to mount transmission equipment, but the new provisions do not address owners of buildings who refuse to lease roof space. Also, while it addresses written exclusivity agreements, there is no provision for landlords who refuse to allow more equipment on their roof.
