Mr. Skora,

I have recently had the opportunity to review the Inukshuk Internet Project in some detail.

The project is very interesting as many of our customers have multiple operations across the North and high speed communication is always an issue.

Having extensive experience in both the recruiting and outplacement fields (specializing in telecommunication/wireless) I have had only the best possible experience with Microcell and their management team.

Microcell employees and management have always provided us with the most professional, immediate and conscientious service.

Microcell have always proven to be ahead of their competition from a technology and customer service point of view. Microcell would definitely be our candidate to be awarded the Northern Internet project.

Should you have any further questions, please contact me directly.

Yours truly,

John W. Walker
Director, Canadian Operations
