Image Description (Vienna)

- Letters embellished or decorated with a drawing or composed of a collection of drawings
- Surfaces or backgrounds covered with repeated geometrical figures or designs
- Surfaces or backgrounds covered with dots
- Surfaces or backgrounds covered with a repeated inscription
- Cheeses
- Cheeses of round shape

Trademark Description

The certification mark is a two-dimensional mark only as applied in a repeating pattern around the entire surface of the lateral part of the cheese wheel. The three-dimensional object shown in dotted outline in the drawing does not part of the trademark.

Certification Mark Text

When the certification mark is affixed to the wares or when used in association with the wares, indicates to the purchaser of the wares, namely cheese, that the wares are of the following defined standard, as certified under official controls: (a) that such cheese has been produced within the territory of a defined production area, namely: the territories of the provinces of Parma, Reggio Emilia, Modena, Bologna to the left bank of the Reno River and Mantua to the right bank of the Po River (the place of origin ); (b) that such cheese has also met the production standard set in respect of its characteristics and quality by CONSORZIO DEL FORMAGGIO PARMIGIANO-

REGGIANO, namely: Parmigiano Reggiano is a hard, cooked and slowly matured cheese, made with raw cow's milk, partially skimmed by natural surface skimming. The farms rearing the dairy cows whose milk is to be processed into Parmigiano Reggiano cheese are located within the place of origin. The cows are fed primarily on fodder from the place of origin, specified by quantity and quality. The use of silage of any kind is prohibited. The milk must be produced and processed within the place of origin. The milk obtained from the evening milking and the morning milking is delivered in whole raw state to the dairy, in line with production specifications. The milk from the morning milking is placed in copper vats and mixed with that from the evening milking, partially skimmed by natural surface skimming. Native whey is added to the milk. The use of selected starters is not permitted. The use of additives is not permitted. Following coagulation, obtained exclusively by the use of calf rennet, the curd is broken up and cooked. After sedimentation, the cheese mass is transferred to the appropriate moulds to form the cheese wheels. The certification mark of 'Parmigiano-Reggiano' in pin dots is stenciled in a repeating pattern around the entire surface of the lateral part of the cheese wheel, together with the registration number of the dairy and the year and month of production onto the lateral part of the cheese wheel, and a casein nameplate showing the codes identifying each cheese wheel. After several days, the cheese wheels are immersed in brine and then matured for a period of at least 12 months. The minimum 12-month maturing period must be carried out in the place of origin. Parmigiano Reggiano cheese, as certified under official controls, has the following characteristics: cylindrical in form with slightly convex or virtually to straight lateral part of the cheese wheel, with flat faces with a slightly raised edge; dimensions: diameter of the flat faces from 35 to 45 cm, lateral part of the cheese wheel height 20 to 26 cm; minimum weight of each cheese wheel: 30 kg; -external appearance: crust of a natural straw colour; paste colour: from pale straw-yellow to straw-yellow; thickness of the crust: approximately 6 mm; colour of the body of the cheese: between light straw-coloured and straw-coloured; characteristic aroma and taste: fragrant, delicate, flavoursome but not pungent; texture of the body of the cheese: fine grained, flaky; -fat content per dry matter: 32% minimum. Raw materials of Parmigiano Reggiano cheese are only cow's milk, salt and calf rennet. Native whey is added to the milk used as culture. Parmigiano Reggiano cheese, in all its typologies under which it may be marketed (wheels, portions and grated), may not undergo any treatment for preservation or storage (for example, freeze-drying, powdered, freezing and quick-freezing). The use of preservatives, additives and any other substance is prohibited. Parmigiano Reggiano cheese has a content of Cyclopropane fatty acids lower than 22 mg/100 g of fat (figure already including the measurement uncertainty), using the gas chromatography-mass spectrometry (GC-MS) method.

Translations

Neuville Sweet Corn

Indication type

Agricultural Product or Food

Category

Fresh and processed vegetable products: products falling under Chapter 7 and products containing vegetables falling under Chapter 20

Goods

Corn, sweet corn.

Territory

Municipality of Neuville, Quebec

Qualification

"Neuville sweet corn" was recognized as a protected geographical indication under the Act respecting reserved designations and added-value claims (Chapter A-20, 03) on June 14, 2017, by an order published in the Gazette officielle du Québec (Vol. 149, No. 24). Recognition of this origin-specific product is a historic anchor point for the territory. The cultivation of corn in the Quebec region dates back many centuries. Around the year 1200, the Iroquois in the region used this grain as the basis of their diet. It was eaten in the indigenous fashion in the form of semolina or flour and was part of daily life in New France in the 17th century. February 1668 marks the first written mention of corn cultivation in Neuville. From the Aboriginal period to the 19th century, corn production on the territory that currently constitutes the municipality of Neuville remained unchanged. The consumption of sweet corn as a vegetable became mainstream with the appearance of the first canneries in the years 1920 to 1930. In the first half of the 20th century, sweet corn cultivation in Neuville developed before the other vegetable-growing territories in the Capitale-Nationale region. From 1960 to 1970, production and sale of the product gradually increased to the point where sweet corn became Neuville's flagship product, recognized as such both inside and outside the municipality. Within the Quebec region, the municipality of Neuville's territory is characterized by its distinctive geographical situation, whose various elements play a role in its ability to abundantly produce high-quality sweet corn and bring it to market as soon as it is harvested. Neuville is part of the fertile St. Lawrence Valley and enjoys a more continental climate than the more eastern farmlands; thanks to its sheltered southern position directly bordering the river, the region is warmer in the summer and welcomes spring earlier than in the municipalities located to the north of Portneuf County. The region's mild climate coupled with its shelter from the wind, its higher temperature sum when compared to other regions in Quebec, and its terraced sandy loamy soil have favoured the farming of large sweet corn fields. The soil in Neuville is comprised of fine, sandy loam that comes from gravelly silt and limestone. Such soil is rare and is favourable to growing vegetables. The soil along foothills contains numerous sedimentary rock fragments that cause the ground to warm up more quickly in the spring and during the emergence phase. These fragments also provide good drainage. Such foothill soil with southern exposure is particularly good for early sweet corn production. Each farm plot runs perpendicular to the river. The whole forms a large rectangle spread out over three tables, starting from the St. Lawrence River to north of Route 138. This unique topography fosters within a single field the creation of microclimates with significant temperature differences in a relatively limited area. Producers use these microclimates and different soil types to their advantage by spreading the seedlings in such a way as to regulate production and supply.
