110-02	Tractor Tires	Includes tires having only one, or two ribs along the tire tread surface and tires having ribs running across the tire tread surface.
110-03	Motorcycle or Bicycle Tires	These tires are characterized by their circular cross-section.
110-04	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove.	---
110-04-01	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove - unbroken rib.	---
110-04-01-01	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove - unbroken rib - one linear groove is perfectly straight (no notches).	The straight groove doesn't have to be at the location of the unbroken rib.
110-04-01-02	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove- unbroken rib - no perfectly linear groove, the straight linear grooves being altered by notches or indentations at their edges.	NOTE: spacing between blocks are not notches, indentations in the blocks and in the ribs are notches.
110-04-02	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove - with no unbroken rib - blocks only.	---
110-04-02-01	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove - with no unbroken rib - blocks only - rectangular or trapezoidal.	Includes: "square" S's.
110-04-02-02	Tires - Straight linear continuous groove - with no unbroken rib - blocks only - irregularly shaped.	---
110-05	Tires - Irregularly wavy or zig-zag continuous grooves defining unbroken ribs.	The ribs may be made of blocks closely and directly aligned one over the other. There are no rows of spaced apart blocks (cl. 110-06) in the middle portion of the tire; blocks may be present at the outer edges of the tire tread. The wavy grooves may look like straight line with wavy edges. In every case, a clearly defined groove is running along the tire tread with no groove crossing through the ribs.  Includes tires having a single continuous rib in the middle of two

		CLASSES WITH THE FOLLOWING NUMBERS (311, 312, 313, 314, 316, 317) Includes: A wide variety of types of containers with NON STANDARD holes in them (see cl. 410 for definition of "standard"). The holes may be in the sides or bottom but are NOT in the top unless it is very unusual. Includes: Aerosols (cl. 311-10) where the only indication of the function is such a small hole that the hole is not a distinguishing feature of the design, shakers, etc. with standard holes at the top if the holes are visible in the closed position. A completely clear top or cover is NOT a hole (See cl. 210). See also cl. 210-217 (closed containers), cl. 233 (caps with holes). Does NOT include Bottles (See cl. 320-347 Bottles).
311	Cylinder Container with Hole	SEE ALSO SUB-CLASS. Right circular cylinders with a hole(s), crack, or other opening in the side wall (Both ends of the cylinder may also be open.) However these are NOT standard trays (cl. 411). Perfect cylinders only. Be careful with coin holders with a large slit the length of one side of the cylinder. Only those which would be perfectly circular if completely closed are included here. Includes: salt and pepper shakers, coin holders, fondue stand, drink mixer, developer powder containers, items with a circular hole at the top and a curved bottom.
311-10	Aerosols, Sprayers, Pumps and Diffusers	NOTE: Hole may not be visible. If hole is insignificant to design, the container should be searched as appropriate to shape. If the spraying mechanism or pump is removable, the container is cross-referred.

		Includes: All types of devices which permit the expulsion of fluids (including gasses) through a specialized hole, aerosols with a typically very small hole from which very small droplets are emitted in combination with compressed air (handles, attachments and aiming mechanisms are minimal and intrinsic), hand held and trigger type sprayers such as fumigators, fire extinguishers, pesticide sprayers, sprayers for trees, etc. The spraying, trigger and holding mechanism is typically very complex, pumps, pump type toothpaste dispensers, right cylindrical vertically oriented tubes with a, generally, unimportant base and a complex top which includes an integral pushing mechanism and an outlet. These designs must be sold as a single unit and, therefore, are NOT cross-referenced. (See also cl. 333), lotion type dispensers with a spout with a, usually centrally located, button which causes the (usually viscous) fluid to be dispensed by suction. The spout usually extends beyond the side of the container portion (which is cross-referenced to bottles if the dispenser is removable). This type of dispenser is ALWAYS located at the top of the container. See spigots and Barrels for designs with a similar function. If the base could stand alone as a design without the removable top it is cross-referred and should be cross-searched. See also cl. 008 (sprayers). Does NOT include Caps only see cl. 233-10, L-shaped containers (inhalers) See cl. 013-04.07 .
312	Containers Obround with Hole	See definition of cl. 311. (cylinder with hole) for cautionary note. Includes: Obrounds, ovals, semicircles, quarter circles with a hole in one or more locations, coin holders which are not completely circular, a couple of designs which are rectangular in plan but distinctly obround in elevation.
313	Triangular Containers with Holes	---
314	Rectangular Boxes with Holes	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. SEE SUB-CLASSES. All designs in this class must have rectangular sides.

		Six-sided RECTANGULAR closed boxes, each side being at right angles to its' neighbours, with a hole in one or more sides. The hole may be shown as perforations or may be a 'window' or may be a simple slot (as typical 'Kleenex' type box, for example). Boxes may be ornamented in addition to having the hole. Contents of box may show through hole. See also cl. 317 (other boxes with hole) for designs which are not strictly rectangular or are a combination of circles and squares, cl. 312 if sides are DISTINCTLY OBROUND, cl. 316, hexagonal and bevelled sided boxes with a hole, cl. 521-10 (Holsters), cl. 214 (Closed rectangular containers) if top is completely clear unless there is additional holes. Does NOT include: suitcases, attache cases, purses etc. with handles.
314-01	Rectangular Boxes with Holes - Plain	Includes: paper & other product dispensers, aquarium tanks, "bottles" which do not meet bottle definitions (cl. 320+), razor packages, trash boxes, some fluid dispensers.
314-02	Rectangular Boxes with Holes - Ornamented	The ornamentation is NOT the shape of the hole.
314-10	Rectangular Boxes with Holes - Angled boxes with holes	Generally rectangular boxes (with a hole in them) one or more sides of which are at an angle to the other sides which is NOT a right angle - i.e. one or more sides slopes. There is a slope, angle or curve on one or more sides BUT the box is still dominantly rectangular on most sides. Includes: mailboxes, boxes with serrations, trash cans, various dispensing devices, cassette holders, cutlery holders, "bottles" which meet NONE of the requirements which define any of the bottle classes (cl. 320+), berry box, toy safe, bank cat litter box, CD holder box, pet carrier refuse container, toilet brush caddy, box type tissue and paper dispensers (see also cl. 044-05.04 and cl. 543, cl. 542), dental floss dispenser.
316	Hexagon Containers with Holes	Includes: pentagons, octagons. Boxes may be generally rectangular with bevelled corners.

317	Other Containers with Hole(s)	Includes: Containers which are not defined in cl. 311-315. May include, but is not limited to, containers which are not rectangular on all six sides, boxes which are curved or sloping on one or more sides, boxes with significant indentations on one or more sides, round boxes. Particularly includes various dispensers which drop the product to a hole at the bottom of the containers which are not specified above. Does NOT include: trays (cl. 410), Simulated Shapes (cl. 530), handles, spouts, bottles.
320	Bottles with Handles	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. THIS DESCRIPTION REFERS TO ALL CLASSES 321 TO 347. NOTE: Indentations which facilitate holding a bottle are NOT handles. A bottle is defined as a container with a very restricted (usually circular) opening usually used to contain (and pour) fluids. Sub-classes are organized by the location of the hole, the existence of a handle and the overall shape of the bottle. Generally, this class is for containers which hold LIQUIDS. Includes: jars, tubes, shakers, other types of containers which look like a bottle. See also cl. 311-10 (Aerosols), cl. 530 (Simulated shapes), cl. 211 (Roll-ons). Does NOT include: Containers which perform the function of a bottle but which do NOT look like a bottle (as defined above - circular constricted hole) (cl. 310); kettles, jugs, cups (cl. 420-425).
321	Bottles with One Handle	---
321-10	Asymmetric bottle with handle	There is a circular upstanding hole at the top of the bottle off centre in plan and a single handle. See also cl. 423 (Jugs with handles), cl. 425 (Cups with handles).

321-20	Bottles with 2 holes and one handle	Constricted circular apertures regardless of location or type.
321-30	Defined' Bottles with one handle	A single, very constricted, centrally located, circular hole is located at the top of the bottle. There are NO design features in the hole. The bottom of the bottle is more or less flat and the bottle stands on the bottom. (Some bottles may have concave bases.) The hole may be covered by a cap (caps are cross-referred). Includes: "Defined" bottles with a handle which is a hole (a horizontally oriented hole all the way through the side of the body of the bottle which functions as a handle); "defined" bottles with a handle which extends outwardly from the side; "defined" bottles with a handle which extends outwardly from the neck.
322	Bottle with 2 Handles and One Hole	Constricted circular opening regardless of location or type of handles or hole.
323	Bottles with more than two holes or handles	All bottles of all types with more than two holes or more than two handles or both.
330	Bottles No Handles	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. A bottle is defined as a container with a very restricted (usually circular) opening usually used to contain (and pour) fluids.
331	Vases	Very elongate upwardly, with a, usually, centrally located hole at top (usually for holding flowers). Most are very heavily ornamented. Many have a relatively short pedestal or several grooves or big indents in the sides. Top may curve inwardly. (See also cl. 436) A search in cl. 400 may be appropriate.
332	Double Holed or Siamese Bottles (Twin Bottles)	Includes: all bottles which have two or more very restricted holes or which have two or more clearly separate compartments. The holes

333	Inverted Bottles and Tubes	SEE ALSO SUB-CLASS. Includes: all inverted bottles which meet following the criteria UNLESS they have features described in another class. Other classes should be searched if the bottle has a flat top i.e. could stand upright. A design is classed with the upright bottles if the bottle could be upright. (Turning the drawing upside down does NOT create a new design.) A single, very constricted, circular hole is located at the bottom of the bottle or tube. There are no design features in the hole. The hole may be covered with a cap (caps are cross-referred, see cl. 230 for caps). The other end (bottom) is NOT flat (i.e. the bottle will NOT stand on that surface.)
333-10	Hooked Tubes	The end furthest from the hole has a hook.
335	"Floppy" Bottles	Closed containers with one or more very restricted (usually circular) apertures in a variety of locations. Designed to contain fluids, these bottles are made of very flexible materials. Includes: hot water bottles, various bags used in the medical industry to hold blood, urine, medicinal fluids, collapsible bags for juice, wine, cleaning products.
336	Asymmetric Bottles	A single constricted circular hole is at the top of the bottle but is visibly off centre in plan or the hole extends from the side of the body of the bottle. NOTE: In one view the central hole in a triangular bottle may appear to be off centre. This is NOT an asymmetric bottle. See also: cl. 321-10 (asymmetric bottles with handles).

337	Bottle Above Top	There is a circular hole at the top of the bottle BUT a portion of the bottle extends above the hole.
338	Dispensers with Spigot	Various containers with a wide variety of very restricted spigot type dispensers at the bottom to disperse powder or food products.  See also cl. 007-03.02 (coffee makers), cl. 311, cl. 439 (funnels), and cl. 008-14 (soaps and other bathroom liquid dispensers).
340	"Defined" Bottles	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. THIS DESCRIPTION REFERS TO ALL CLASSES WITH THE FOLLOWING NUMBERS 341, 343, 344, 346.  A single, very constricted, centrally located, circular hole is located at the top of the bottle above all of the bottle. There are NO design features in the hole. The bottom of the bottle is more or less flat and the bottle stands on the bottom. (Some bottles may have concave bases.) The hole may be covered by a cap (caps are cross-referred).  Includes: Roll-ons which meet definition. (see also cl. 010).  Does NOT include: Upstanding bottles with centrally located, circular constrictions at the top which clearly are not standard holes (see containers with holes - 310 etc.).
341	Bottles with Identical Elevations	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. SEE SUB-CLASSES  Perfectly circular in plan, all views in elevation are identical.  Includes: bottles with more than eight sides, if all eight sides are the same.

		applies to the following sub-classes. Includes: containers with an uncompartmented "bottom" which is totally surrounded by sides and has an open top. Proportions, angles, shapes, functions all vary wildly. None of these designs have a level smooth top edge to the top of the sides which is parallel to the base as is the case with "Standard" trays (See cl. 410 - cl. 417, standard trays.) See sub-classes for descriptions of the various types of top edge. Caps are cross-referred.
435-10	Trays - Four sides: Downward notch or groove on one or more sides	SEE ALSO SUB-CLASS. Includes trays with two sides higher than other two sides, i.e. tomato tray, with or without holes, produce trays, VCR tape box, card file trays, stacking trays and baskets, napkin holder, some beverage cases, slicing guide. This tray has sides all the way around but one or more side has a significant notch cut in it. Almost all are rectangular some have slight wavy top.
435-11	Trays - Spout only-open	This, usually, open topped containers have a downwardly extending (frequently arcuate) groove or notch in the top surface or an irregularly sloped top which has the functional purpose of directing the flow of the material contained in the container or is used to hold a cigarette. All shapes. Caps are cross-referred. Includes: a few "bottle" type containers with a relatively constricted hole WITH A SPOUT of type described above. See also cl. 410 - cl. 425.

435-20	Trays - Four sides: one or more sides is higher	There are sides all the way around of this (almost invariably) rectangular tray but one side (or more) is much taller than the other. SOME OF THESE TRAYS HAVE COMPARTMENTS) Includes: Display boxes for store counters (particularly used for candy bars)
435-30	Trays - Four sides: top slopes downward	There are sides all the way around this open container but they all slope downward toward one side. Some hang (See cl. 044).
435-40	Trays - Four Sides: Uneven top edge	The top surface has significant irregularity in the vertical plane. The irregularity may be a repetitive pattern, or a series of notches or grooves. No handles. Some wavy top in 435-10. Includes: Woven baskets, decorative bowls. See also cl. 435-10.
436	Bedpans	Open topped trays/bowls etc. with an in turning upper lip which partially covers the hole. Includes: bedpans. See also Vases (cl. 331).
437	Containers - Circle in Square, Square in Circle	Open faced containers with a single hole in the top which is a different shape than the exterior plan view of the container overall. Only two types are acceptable: one has a generally rectangular exterior with a generally circular hole inside, the other has a generally circular exterior with a generally rectangular hole inside.
438	Containers - Irregular Bottom	SEE ALSO SUB-CLASS The dominant feature of the design is that the base of the tray is NOT smooth and level. Discounting standard ridges and grooves to provide support without burning/ freezing the table top. Includes rounded bottoms. Includes: Paint Trays.

514	Rectangular Compartmented Trays (In Plan)	DO NOT CLASSIFY TO THIS NUMBER. SEE SUB-CLASSES.  See definition at cl. 510.  The exterior edge of the tray is rectangular in plan.
514-10	Rectangular Compartmented Trays (In Plan) - With Circular Compartments	All the compartments within the rectangular container are circular (includes obrounds etc.).
514-30	Rectangular Compartmented Trays (In Plan) - With diagonal lines	May include perpendicular or parallel lines (see below) but MUST INCLUDE lines at an angle to all exterior sides of this rectangular container.  Includes: Compartmental patterns dominated by triangles.  See cl. 516 hexagonal with compartments.  Does NOT include: Circular compartments.
514-40	Rectangular Compartmented Trays	---
514-41	Rectangular Compartmented Trays - With parallel lines	The lines which form the compartments are parallel to only two sides of the rectangle and those two sides are parallel also (i.e. the lines only run in one direction).
514-42	Rectangular Compartmented Trays - With perpendicular lines	All compartments are reasonably regular rectangles formed by lines running parallel to both sides of the rectangle. (If the curves are too big see cl. 514-70 many different compartments) i.e. the lines run in two directions only.

514-70	Non-geometric compartmented trays	---
514-71	Identical compartments but undefined shaped trays	All the compartments are the same. The shape is not defined in any of the preceding geometric categories, but IS defined by the object which it contains (does not include eggs or trees) such as light bulbs, ties.
514-72	Trays with many different compartments	There is more than one shaped compartment i.e. circles and rectangles or circles and diagonals are included in the same pattern or there is NO PATTERN.
514-73	Egg Trays and Egg Cartons	This sub-class is for egg cartons, egg containers & trays only. Egg cartons, trays and containers with compartments of many different shapes are included in this this sub-class. Examples are: moulded pulp carton for eggs, egg tray, carton for eggs. Check with sub-class 514-10, it could be cross-referenced since some of the compartments for these designs are multipurpose and are spherical in shape.
516	Pentagonal, Hexagonal or Octagonal Compartmented Trays	See definition at cl. 510.  The tray is pentagonal, hexagonal or octagonal in plan overall, regardless of the shapes of the holes.
517	Compartmented Irregular Trays of Undefined Exterior Shape and Compartmented Trays Composed of Adjacent Circles (Clumps)	See definition at cl. 510.  Includes: All compartmented trays not defined in any of the preceding classes of exterior shape including compartmented trays composed of adjacent circles (clumps - which are compartmented containers made up of circles which show as curves on the exterior vertical edge of the container - series of discrete circle one beside the other as well as circles in clumps) and which are not defined in cl. 530 (simulated shapes), and cl. 523 (compartmented with handle).

Do NOT cross-refer into other classes. However, if it is possible to envision the design as some other shape of container because of the relatively small amount of ornamentation, then the class of shape without the ornamentation must also be searched and will be considered analogous. (See particularly bullet shaped containers which cross-refer to circular cylinders, cl. 211.).

Many designs have more than one of the features listed. When a design is being CLASSIFIED each class and sub-class should be considered IN DESCENDING ORDER and the design classified in the first category which accurately describes the design. When a SEARCH is being conducted, however, it may be appropriate to consider each class and sub-class in ASCENDING ORDER and search each class and sub-class which has one or more of the features of the design. Note that 'miscellaneous' designs within a class are given the class number and NO sub-class number. Each sub-class should be considered BEFORE a design is classed to the class number only.
733-10	Maps - Game boards	NOTE: These are game boards NOT real maps used in navigation (artistic works under the Copyright Act). 733-20	Game Board - Playing Fields	---
733-21	Hockey Game Boards	All have a "net" type shaped ornament at each end, most have centre line with "blue" line on either side, many have five circles, some have built in 'sticks' (see also cl. 732-20 Players Move in Slots), some have grids, patterns, paths, random ornamentation, insignificant spinners (cl. 735-20).
733-22	Baseball, cricket Game Boards	Many have a square with emphasis at the corners usually set at an angle to other features. Many have many circles or portions of circles or other patterns indicating 'home run', "strike out" areas. A few have circles with movable arrows attached at their centre (see also cl. 735-20 Spinners) See also cl. 733-30 circles.
733-23	Football, Soccer Game Boards	Most have a plurality of parallel lines (see also cl. 733-63) Rectangular paths) commonly numbered at the side from zero at each end to 50 or 55 at the centre. Commonly there is "goal" or "end post" shaped ornament at each end. Some have additional patterns of circles or grids. A few have circles with movable arrows attached at their centre (see also cl. 735-20 Spinners) See also cl. 733-30 (circles).
733-30	Game Boards - Circles	The dominant design feature is circles. See sub-classes. The designs which have not been placed in the sub-classes meet the following description: The circles are NEVER connected by lines but may be surrounded by lines. The lines may form regular patterns or grids. There are NO concentric circles. Patterns may be regular or irregular. (One is a pattern of stars.) The patterns do NOT form pathways.
733-31	Game Boards - Bullseyes	Not all are circular. There are either concentric circles or lines

There is sometimes a path around the edge with path(s) traversing centre, rectangular grids, random patterns, etc. Radiating lines may be the edges of 'playing cards' in a regular pattern (For cards in irregular patterns which do NOT radiate see cl. 733-70 Random.) There may be other patterns of circles, secondary dots are NEVER connected by lines. Includes: a couple of spirals, a few interlocking (Olympic type) circular patterns, Trivial Pursuit (49423), ornamentation that looks like a record, some are only partial circles, four rectangles which have corners at a centrally located circle.
733-32	Game Boards - Connect-the-dots	A repetitive shape (commonly a circle but could be many other shapes) is connected by lines which are usually straight lines or the circles merely touch one another. None have dominant concentric circles (see cl. 733-31 Bullseyes). Dots form pathways some of which may be on fantasy maps or golf courses (see also cl. 733-61 Meandering paths), some may have random patterns.
733-40	Game Boards - Triangles, Pentagons, Hexagons, Octagons	The triangles or pentagons or hexagons or octagons may sit side by side, have spaces between them or be clumped in grids. (See definition at cl. 733-50.) The triangles etc. NEVER interlock to form rectangles although occasionally a FEW of the triangles etc. may interlock to form other shapes. Some boards have minor additional shapes\patterns, fantasy maps, insignificant circles, random ornaments.
733-50	Game Boards - Grids	See also sub-classes. Note: "Grid" is defined as "two sets of mutually perpendicular lines dividing a map or chart into squares or rectangles" (American Navigation, Bowditch, 1956) or as "a network of uniformly spaced horizontal and perpendicular lines", (Merriam, Webster). Thus, by definition, ALL grids are made up of rectangles or they are not grids. The designs which have not been placed in the sub-classes meet the following description: game boards with more than one grid pattern, grids made up of more than one shaped element (although all elements of the grid are more or less rectangular), grids with a single grid but multiple orientations of the grid, boards that are dominated by rectangles in a variety of regular and irregular patterns which do not meet the definitions of the other sub-classes, the edge is not necessarily rectangular.

733-51	Game Boards - Checkerboards	Alternating light and dark (two tones only) SQUARES form a perfectly regular pattern. The exterior edge of the playing surface is invariably a perfect rectangle. Some boards are three dimensional.
733-52	Game Boards - Plain grids	Regular grids are formed by lines alone. Most are formed of perfect squares. There is NO ornamentation in any of the squares in the grid. The periphery of the board is invariably a square.
733-53	Game Boards - Patterned grids (Scrabble, crossword)	The exterior edge of the portion of the surface that is covered by the GRID is a perfect rectangle. Each element of the grid is exactly the same as all the other elements and all the elements are rectangles. There is a pattern on the grid which is made by changing the tone of some elements. Many have additional lines which divide each rectangle into triangles. Sometimes adjacent elements are of the same tone. In addition to the grid some designs have paths.
733-54	Game Boards - Irregularly edged grids	The grid is made up of rectangular elements which are all exactly the same size and shape (some may have changes in tone) but there are distinct protrusions, indentations, bulges etc. along the exterior edge of the PATTERNED portion of the playing surface and there may be gaps in the interior of the grid as well.
733-60	Game Boards - Paths	A path is made up of 'stepping stones'. The 'stepping stones' may take any shape EXCEPT CIRCULAR. (See cl. 733-30 patterns of circles).
733-61	Game Boards - Meandering paths (golf)	The path or paths do NOT form a central void. The pathway may be made up of any repetitive shape EXCEPT circles. Many look like plan views of fantasy golf courses, "floor plans for buildings" or fantasy countries. Pathways made up of rectangles do NOT form grids (See cl. 733-50) or a single large rectangle (See following sub-classes).
